Millennial Maturity: Exploring the Future of Business and Social Impact

Moderated by Catherine Cuellar, Director, Entrepreneurs for North Texas, a program of Communities Foundation of Texas

The landscape of entrepreneurship has drastically changed over the past five years. Millennials are redefining consumer behavior and the general adoption of technology. Aside from popular belief, there is a glimpse of hope. This talk will discuss the intersection of entrepreneurship, technology and social impact and what that means for the next generation of leaders.

The 2016 Social Innovation Luncheon Series (SILS) is dedicated to bringing the most innovative speakers on topics that pertain to the work of SVP Dallas - North Texas' original mentor-driven social innovation fund - as engaged community leaders committed to improving lives and maximizing social impact through the thoughtful application of collective resources and expertise. The 2016 SILS dates and featured speakers are:

March 30	Jose Luis Zelaya, Entrepreneur
April 27	Kari Saratovsky, Philanthropic Strategist & Jon Mertz, Author
August 31	Dr. Fred Cerise, CEO & David Krause, President
September 28	Harville Hendrix and Helen LaKelly Hunt, Authors
